CABINET DEBATES U. S. ATTITUDE ON ARBITRATION PLEA

EUROPE SEEKS ADVICE FROM AMERICA ON REPARATIONS. ECONOMIC MEET? Parley in Washington Early in New Year Favored by Administration.

By DAVID LAWRENCE Copyright 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette. Washington. President Harding and his cabinet have thus far been discussing two broad phases of the European situation: the attitude the United States government should assume in the event that France and Great Britain request this country to mediate or arbitrate the dispute as to the amount of reparation Germany should pay; and the affirmative measures that should be taken on the initiative of America to ease the economic burdens of Europe.

The idea of an international economic conference in Washington shortly after the new year begins appears strongly to the administration, which feels it will make greater headway with American public opinion in the long run if the conference is held where all the conferees and all the facts can be seen at first hand.

But an economic conference is an ultimate and not an immediate step. The first problem is really what the United States government should do for that what Europe is asking for. Ambassador Harvey was appointed to London and there is reason to believe other powers asked American.

DELAVAN RESIDENT KILLED BY ST. PAUL PASSENGER TRAIN JAMES MILLER DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER SMASHUP. AUTOMOBILE HIT Body of Bradley Official Carried Distance on Pilot; Recently Married, Report.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Delavan. Injuries received Saturday afternoon when a seven passenger touring car was completely wrecked when struck by a C. & N. St. Paul passenger train, proved fatal to James Miller, 47, foreman and designer for the Bradley Official Carried Distance on Pilot; Recently Married, Report.

The train, No. 145, had just left the Delavan station at 3 o'clock, bound for Eau Claire, and had not gained much speed when the accident occurred at the Third street crossing. Miller had just left his home, a block and a half away, and was going downtown when his automobile was struck by the train, piloted by Engineer Myers.

The car was struck almost exactly in the center. Parts and splinters were scattered along the track for a half a block, the motor of the car was crushed and the front end of the car was crushed. Miller was carried a half block further, where the train came to a stop. Unconscious, he was picked up and placed in the baggage car. The train backed up to the station and Miller was taken to the hospital, where he died.

A witness to the accident was Miller's son Theodore, who was playing in the street near his home and at the time of the accident saw his father injured.

The impact broke the pilot of the engine. Delavan was stirred by the accident and within a few minutes after the wreck large crowds had gathered to view what was left of the automobile. There is no flagman at the crossing and Miller had at the time of the accident when the train bore down on him.

Chicago. Battling foot by foot through towering seas and freezing spray, the men who go down to the sea in ships are fighting an epochal battle, across the icy wastes of Lake Superior to keep navigation open far beyond its usual time and bring down the lakes the last cargo of the year.

Already the fight has claimed its toll of lives, and before the last ship has been accounted for—or been given up for lost—that toll may be greater.

Nearly a dozen died a few days ago when a Canadian steamer was dashed to pieces within a stone's throw of safety at the mouth of the Portage Lake ship canal.

Last night twenty eight more were added to the probable death toll when survivors of the tug Reliance, wrecked last Wednesday on Lizard Island, reached Sault Ste. Marie after almost incredible hardships.

Navigation on the upper lakes usually closes Dec. 15. This year it was decided to keep the waterways open until Dec. 15, because the coal and rail strikes had cut down the coal shipped to the Northwest and delayed the movement of grain east.

As a result nine big freighters loaded with grain—$23,000,000 worth (Continued on page 4)

Company Sold Stock Far in Excess of Property Value, Hearing Brings Out.

There was little prospect of the recommendation permitting the Seyler company again to sell its securities in Wisconsin. Miller had at the time of the accident when the train bore down on him.

PITY AND PRAYER FOR WALLACE REID IS ASKED BY HAYS

MOVIE STAR DYING BECAUSE DRUGS AND DRINK GOT HIM. ORGIES DENIED Actor Wails Over Failure to "Stop Long Ago"—Wife Talks.

Los Angeles, Calif. Wallace Reid, motion picture star, is on the verge of death and for several days has not been expected to live, according to Mrs. Wallace Reid, (Dorothy Davenport) in an interview today in the Los Angeles Examiner given at a Hollywood sanitarium.

The physicians, corroborated Mrs. Reid's statements, saying: "Mr. Reid has been near death for the past five or six days. His temperature has repeatedly reached 103 and his pulse 120. His heart action is irregular and weak. He has fainted on an average of three times daily and has lost seventy pounds in weight. Indications are that he is suffering either from a complete exhaustive condition or from influenza."

Undermined Strength The physician, describing the actor's illness, according to the Examiner, said: "His present illness has no connection with over indulgence in alcohol or narcotics, although such indulgences have undoubtedly undermined his strength and system in months past."

Mrs. Reid, describing his condition just before the present breakdown said that he wept and said: "How did I happen to let myself go? Why couldn't I stop long ago? I thought I was strong; I thought I knew myself so well. I can't understand it."

Indignant denials of published reports of orgies in the Reid home were made by Mrs. Alice Davenport, mother-in-law of the actor to whom those reports had been credited.

Hays Asks Pity Will H. Hays, director of the organization motion picture industry, connecting with the actor's illness, said:

"If Reid's condition is a result of indulgence in narcotics, as has been reported, it is a matter to be prayed for. The poor boy should be dealt with as a diseased person—not to be censured or shunned. Rather, let us all sympathetically try to help him, try to restore him to health."

MASONIC FUNERAL FOR EX-GOVERNOR JAMES O. DAVIDSON

SERVICES WILL BE HELD IN MADISON ON TUESDAY. CAPITOL CLOSED Former Executive Came from Norway as Immigrant Boy of 24.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison. The funeral of James O. Davidson, 61st governor of Wisconsin, who served from 1905 to 1911, will be held in Madison Tuesday afternoon at the Masonic temple. Out of honor to the former governor, who, for 21 years, was connected with the state government the capitol building will be closed during the services.

It is recalled how the man who later was governor of the state came to Madison from Norway in 1873, a 21-year-old immigrant boy. Soon by his activity he became village officer at Soldier's Grove, his new home after moving from Madison. In 1892 he was sent to the state legislature and continued active in state affairs until 1913, when he retired as president of the state board of control.

Former Governor Davidson served as state treasurer from 1898 to 1902, and as lieutenant governor from 1902 to 1906, when he became governor on the resignation of Robert M. La Follette. After five years in that position, he retired and was appointed to the board of control.

For the last few years Mr. Davidson has been confined to his home at Soldier's Grove, where he has been seriously ill about three weeks ago. While at the hospital pneumonia developed, and his death followed Saturday.

A large delegation from Milwaukee and surrounding cities will attend the funeral.

Former Governor Davidson was active in the public life of Wisconsin for a number of years, until 1911, when he retired from the governorship. He was born in Norway, and was educated in the common schools of that country.

At the next election he was elected lieutenant-governor and acted in that position until 1902, when he was elected governor. He was re-elected in 1906, and was elected state treasurer in 1908.

Milton, Wis. William Wallace Clarke, a resident of Milton for 66 years, where he has conducted a book and stationary store since 1881, and the oldest correspondent of the Janesville Gazette, died at his home here early Monday morning, one week before he would have celebrated his 75th birthday—Christmas day.

Mr. Clarke had suffered slightly from attack of bronchial trouble, but had been in his store Sunday as usual. He retired Sunday night and died at 2 o'clock Monday morning after a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Aug. 28.

O'Rourke was one of the six men who were shot down before the Herin city cemetery, after they had been marched through the town by a singing, jeering mob.

One witness was told of seeing the six dead and desperately wounded men in the road, three of them still breathing and all bound together by a rope about their necks. According to attorneys for the prosecution, one of these men was O'Rourke and the other was Howard Hoffman, who died two days later in the Herin hospital. O'Rourke was at Marion today under heavy guard in its central prison, but he was called to the stand as soon as possible.

STATE T. B. RULES TALKED AT MEET

Sanitary Board and Breeders' Association Confer at Madison.

Livestock breeders and state authorities interested in seeing Wisconsin hold her lead as the home of healthy livestock met with the Wisconsin Livestock Breeder's association and the state sanitary board in Agricultural hall, Madison on Saturday afternoon. Representatives present insisted that the area and accredited herd testing be continued along a sane and reasonable program and an appeal made to the legislature to obtain sufficient funds to carry on the bovine tuberculosis eradication work to make Wisconsin livestock worth more to the owners.

At the end of the conference the present system of having the state and federal government bear the costs of testing and administration work through a tax fund was recommended. However, there were expressions made from the floor that in the near future the bovine tuberculosis test will be made obligatory and a lower indemnity paid.

Any change in the present system of carrying on the cattle was strongly opposed by the state authorities.

Protect Tested Herds

Livestock men insisted on legislation and regulations to prevent infection of herds or counties once cleaned up through the action of a new pasteurization act, the curbing of "scalpers" shipping in untested cattle and a policy of "no cattle to be shipped in an accredited area unless they have a clean bill of health."

State men declared that packers should pay the 10 cents a hundred on a more liberal basis than has been accepted through the National Livestock Exchange. Packers who take the trouble to protect his herds from infection deserves 10 cents a hundred more for the reason the herds are worth more, declared Andrew Hopkins, "It's a premium—but good business for the healthy hogs bring that much and more to the packers."

E. J. Parker, Rock county, president at the meeting with Earl Murray, secretary. Others from Rock county attending the meeting were J. C. Robinson, Evansville, Ira J. Jansen, Beloit, George Hull, Hugh C. Hemmingsway, Rock county Farm Bureau, J. T. Fisher, Rock county Holstein association and L. C. French.

It is believed Miss Saunders will accept it.

POLICE TO ISSUE 1923 DOG TAGS

New Plan for Issuance of Licenses to Begin January 1.

The year 1923 will bring a change in administration of the state dog license law in Janesville.

Under plans worked out by city officials the police department will have full charge of the job, starting Jan. 1, and all applications for licenses will be made there instead of to the city treasurer, as this year, or to the city clerk as was the custom prior to the passage of the new state law.

The plan of having the police department issue the licenses has been worked out successfully in Beloit and other Wisconsin cities. The police are ready to do it because a part of the money collected goes into the police pension fund.

Taxes for 1923 have not been received, so Chief Charles Newman is not yet ready to receive applications, but it is thought issuance of licenses may begin later this week. The license fee is $1 for male dogs and $2 for females. Puppies under the age of six months do not have to be licensed.

Although the state law is strict in regard to letting dogs run loose when not accompanied by their owners, little attempt has been made here, or anywhere in the state, to enforce these regulations rigidly the past year. A close check-up was made, however, on all dogs in the city as to whether they were licensed.

LOCAL WOMAN ONE OF 300 Suing For NEW YORK TRACT

Mrs. Leslie Apfel, South Main street, wife of the manager of the Standard Oil stations here, is one of 300 heirs of Roger Jansen, one time owner of a strip of land in New York worth a quarter of a billion dollars, the title to which they are now seeking to regain.

Heirs of Jansen, who settled in New York in the seventeenth century and who in 1663 received a crown grant of valuable lands, claim to have historic documents supporting and proving their title to the land, on which are now such famous buildings as the city hall, the city hall, Singer building, and others. It is the most valuable part of New York, comprising 62 acres, now valued at $250,000,000.

Roger Jansen died, leaving his property to his wife, a Bogardus, it is claimed, who had her title to it confirmed by Peter Stuyvesant, the most prominent figure of early New York history. She died, willing it to her surviving relatives, to be handed down from generation to generation, the heirs say. All the 300 members of this family claim to have papers showing their direct descent from Mrs. Jansen, although it is 10 generations back.

In addition to Mrs. Apfel, who was a Bovee before her marriage, others in this section engaged in the legal battle are Albert Bovee, Beloit; Mrs. C. A. Peters and Fred Bovee, Racine; Mrs. J. Oliver, Danville, Ill.; Mrs. Fred Marulise, Kenosha. A meeting of a number of the family members was held recently in the city where they were assured by prominent lawyers that they were entitled to the property.

Edu Claice—Toreador of peon trousers, which had become the vogue with a score or more of male high school students here, have been "officially" banned by Principal T. M. Bray of Edu Claice high school.

"We are here to work and not to stage a fashion show," was the dictum of the principal, and he created a sensation by placing his ban on the new style.

Followers of the toreador style were kindly but firmly requested by the principal to go home and don the regulation garment and his request was immediately heeded.

100 WAYS To Make Money

By BILLY WINNER

If I Were a Woodworker—

I WOULD make toys. Sounds funny, does it? Not a bit of it. I knew a man who could make toys, and used to tinker around in his home. One day he discovered a new toy. At first he made this toy in the smallest quantities, but today his toys are sold all over the world. A big factory stands to his credit—because he had an idea and went after it.

I would start in a small way, too. I would sell my toys with the help of the Gazette Want Ads. That would be a start. If my idea were a good one, I would let Gazette Want Ads find me capital with which to promote it.

NEW RECORD SET FOR CITY INTEREST

$18,500 from Banks Since Jan. 1—Seek Bids for 1923.

Interest on daily deposits has netted the city $18,500 so far this year compared to approximately $12,000 last year, according to the records of City Clerk E. J. Sartell. In 1920, the interest amounted to a little less than $4,000.

This is the record year for interest on municipal funds and will be probably the highest for many years to come because the major portion of the high school bond issue proceeds has been on deposit all year, in addition to the regular city money. Interest on the bonds is expected to exceed $14,000 by the end of the year.

The city's money has been deposited equally among the five city banks all year, each paying interest per cent. With the Bank of Southern Wisconsin now in liquidation, only four banks remain to bid on the city's funds for 1923. Mr. Sartell is now advertising for bids to be submitted before 2 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 26. Because of Christmas coming on Monday this year, the next regular council meeting will be held the day the bank bids are opened.

Christian Church

Much appreciation was expressed for the assistance given by C. B. Clark, pastor; Miss Julia Selis, contralto; and the Rev. J. S. Baum, evangelist.

The Royal Tropical Marimba Band is a real treat for Janesville, and is brought here as a special feature for the week before Christmas. The company consists of nine talented artists from Guatemala, Central America, and to miss seeing and hearing them would be to sacrifice the greatest attraction coming here this season. They are exclusive Victor artists and have made altogether forty-seven records for that company.
The great expense of bringing them here, together with the very excellent picture, "Pride of Palomar," makes a slight advance in prices necessary. See prices below:

Craig, chairman of the Rock county junior club committee, and John Dady, explained the new pig club plans for the county and nearly all members present from the association pledged a pig to further Poland-China among the juniors in the county. The committee to have charge of the junior club extension work is composed of Secretary Charles Matby, President Norman Little and County Agent R. T. Glasco. Another meeting will be held early in January to consider additional extension work through the association. A drive for increased membership will be made early next year.

CAPTAIN AND 28
SAILORS ARE MISSING
SHIPS IN ICE BATTLE

of ships and cargo are fighting their way down Lake Superior toward the graveyard of gallant vessels, Whitefish Bay, trying to win through to Buffalo for winter storage.

Big Fleet Icebound
In Mud Lake, part of the St. Mary's river, another big fleet is icebound, waiting for the arrival of the nine which left Fort Williams, Ont., three days ago before trying with the assistance of ice breaking tugs, to win past Detroit to the open waters of Lake Huron.

At Eagle Harbor and Grand Marais, Whitefish Point and Delour, Alpena, Mackinac Island and Manistique, naval radio operators are keeping tireless vigil, guiding the freighters through the night with radio compass signals and waiting for the calls for help which may come.

The story of the fate of the tug Ralliance, owned by the Superior Paper company of Sault Ste. Marie, was told yesterday when seven survivors reached the Soo.

Fighting the Seas
Five days ago the tug, with a crew of 12 and 23 passengers, was dashed to pieces on the rocks of Point Aux Pins, the western entrance to the St. Mary's river and 12 miles from the mainland. The captain and 27 men took one boat and Mr. and Mrs. John Harten, and seven others, took the other.

The captain's boat has not been accounted for, but the night after drifting several hours in the storm, finally was blown ashore on the Ontario mainland, 35 miles north of Duluth.

Mrs. Harten was so exhausted the party was forced to rest 36 hours at an Indian hut before starting the 20 mile tramp inland to the railroad.

When the railroad was reached Mr. and Mrs. Harten were suffering so much from the cold that they were left at the station for medical treatment while the other seven went on to Sault Ste. Marie.

They held out little hope for the Captain and his companions. If the party succeeded in reaching Lizard Island they may find hints there, but while game is plentiful they have no weapons.

Desolate Scene
The scene of the wreck of the Ralliance is one of the most desolate spots on the upper lakes. From Hatchewanna bay to Michipicoten harbor, a distance of more than 50 miles, there are no settlements. The only inhabitants are only woods-men, trappers and Indians. The Ralliance and its crew are off the main steamship route and are seldom visited except by woodsmen and fishermen in the summer, by an occasional inter-island boat. If the launch carrying the captain and his 26 companions failed to reach the island, yet survived the gale and drifting ice, it may have been blown ashore on the mainland miles from human habitation. If such was the case, it is improbable that the rescue weakened by long exposure to the intense cold could have survived long unless, like those who reached Sault Ste. Marie, they found some Indian cabin in which to recuperate.

THE MET OPPORTUNITY AND GRASPED ITS HAND.

The penniless immigrant—penniless in that he has only a few dollars to qualify for entrance to this country, but rich in vision and ambition—may take new hope from the experience of James O. Davidson, who died Saturday. Village clerk, member of the assembly, treasurer, governor, member of the state board of control—he was honored by election or appointment to these offices and in each rendered faithful service. But what is greater than achieving place in public life, was the fact that he worked his way up from a laboring immigrant, still in the costume and with the habits and language of his native Norway, and he tackled every and any job that was at hand. No one ever heard him complain that the United States held no place for him. No one ever heard him berate his adopted country, because some one did not hold out a silver platter with a big job at high wages and short hours for his plucking. He bent his back to the task—gave honest performance to his set duties and when called on to serve his people in the state offices was equally in earnest.

He was the kind of immigrant that has made America. He was absorbed in the melting pot, became as much a part of the United States as though his ancestry had lived here for centuries rather than that he had come alone and unknown to meet a new world and new conditions. More than being governor, more than being a faithful public servant is this lesson to the sniveling crew which takes a joy in denouncing America and tries to change government because it offers "no opportunity."

In admitting that he is the leader of the democracy former-president Wilson seems to have overlooked Joe Tumulty entirely.

ONE UP, ONE DOWN.

One of the reasons for the failure of the attempt to start a third party at the conference at Cleveland was the apparent impossibility of the labor element and the farmer agreeing. They represent two diametrically different sets of ideas in reference to wages, particularly in the matter of rail wage scales. The farmer is told repeatedly that the reason for the high freights is, that wages are high, and he therefore is a bear when it comes to this question. On the other hand the laborer wants cheap farm products and high wages and in this comes in contact with the farmer. When therefore the effort has been made, once at Chicago and again at Cleveland, to organize a farm-labor third party, it has met with failure. In one or more instances where a coalition has been made in some of the states, either the farmer has dominated wholly or labor has been so largely in the ascendancy that neither has been satisfied.

THE NATION COMES FIRST.

In the end it may be well understood that above all and ahead of all, the interests of the whole nation are paramount to the demands of any class either industrial or grouped as common in social interest. It isn't the time when men swarm at the doors of the factory seeking jobs, that times are best. It isn't when everything that the farmer or sells as lowest that he is most prosperous. There must be a happy medium in national life where all men may meet. Unless that is so we shall fall into bad ways and errors of government that are eventually to prove fatal.

The immigration question boiled down to the finality is as to whether we shall have another Austria made up of diverse languages and peoples—a nation that when the test came crumbled to pieces like a house of sand—or whether we shall have a nation based on fundamentals of citizenship with a normal standard cooperating to that end unselfishly. In this we are all concerned no matter whether the fathers of citizens now came here three hundred years ago or twenty-five years ago. The Boston Transcript asks "Shall Americans be a nameless and featureless collection of political hybrids?" It will be so if the coile system is to be accepted as a result of the present agitation for the repeal of the Johnson Immigration act.

A LESSON FROM JEFFERSON.

Thomas Jefferson was writing more than a century ago when he said in a letter to William Wirt, great lawyer and jurist:

"For us to attempt a war to reform all Europe and bring her back to principles of morality and respect for equal rights of nations would show us only to be maniacs of another character. We should indeed have at least the merit of good intentions as well as the folly of the hero of La Mancha."

To those who are clamoring for armed force and intervention to regenerate Europe, the letter of Jefferson might have some weight. He, at least, was a greater leader and a more profound statesman than the apologist for the League of Nations now about to reenter politics.

Any person not employed this winter may spend a few hours studying the three comets which are

Taxation Problems Up to Congress

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—This winter's session of congress promises to bring a spirited contest over certain aspects of federal taxation. During the war period, when the public understood that the country was in an emergency, less attention was paid to what might be called the scientific equilibrium of taxation. The public knew the government needed money to keep up its vast war expenditures and the taxes were paid, generally without very much question. With the war over and the people showing a growing tendency to analyze such matters, the various taxes are coming in for close scrutiny to determine their fairness and their relative wisdom.

Three vital points will be up for discussion during this winter's session and, in all probability, there will be legislation on some if not all of them. They are: first, the question of surtaxes; second, the exemption of municipal and state securities; and, third, the taxability of unproductive surplus. On every one of these questions, members of both houses are divided, so the session promises to produce some lively tax contests.

The question of surtaxes is one involving the economic law of diminishing returns. Another way of stating the matter is to say it involves killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

Surtaxes are paid only by comparatively wealthy people and by great corporations. To become liable for surtaxes means that a large income is being enjoyed. There are two schools of thought on the question. One is that the people and corporations who are getting big incomes should be taxed to the limit. The opposing theory is that such taxation is a discrimination and will inevitably defeat itself by provoking all manner of legal evasions of taxes. This theory is that a rich man or corporation will pay a good round tax if he thinks it fair and the government will get much more revenue out of such payments, but that if he thinks the tax is unfair he will do everything he can to defeat its purpose. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon declares that the government will get a bigger revenue out of a moderate surtax than out of what may be regarded as an extortionate surtax.

One of the highest officials of the government recently boasted that he knew a hundred ways to evade the surtaxes. This in all probability was no exaggeration. It is possible, for instance, for a rich man to hand his property over to his heirs, thus dividing it up into so many parts that no one of them will have to pay much surtax. By such a method, the aggregate of the taxes on the several parts will not be equal to what the tax would be on the whole income if kept in the name of one man. Trusts may be created and scores of other legal evasions can be resorted to which baffle the Treasury of the tax income.

The Secretary cites statistics to illustrate his point. He shows that in 1919 the sum of $306,000,000 was collected in surtaxes. In 1920 this had declined to $259,000,000; in 1921 to $450,000,000 and the estimated surtax return for 1922 is placed by the Secretary at only $350,000,000. These diminishing returns from the surtax, in spite of the fact that the rate has remained the same, prove, in the Secretary's opinion, that in spite of everything the Internal Revenue Bureau can do, taxpayers are finding out each year more ways to avoid the payment of taxes. The Secretary insists that this constitutes the killing of the goose that lays the golden eggs.

On large incomes the rates, including surtax, amount to 53 per cent as a maximum—more than half a man's income. No man, the secretary asserts, no matter how wealthy, likes to see more than half of his year's income taken away. He is urging congress to fix a maximum rate of about 33 per cent.

It may be recalled that during the war Baron Astor paid an income tax of about 125 percent, according to reports then printed. That is, he had to turn over to the tax collectors every single cent he made during the year, and in addition dig down into his pocket and find 25 percent more. This arose from the fact that he was amenable to both American and British income taxes, deriving income from both countries.

While such an arrangement is endurable in time of war, it is illogical in peace times, in the opinion of Secretary Mellon and other advocates of surtax reduction. They assert that enterprising men who assist in developing the business of the country will be discouraged and stop doing business. If a newsboy makes 50 cents a day and has it all taken away from him or even half, he will shortly say its no use doing all that hard work for nothing and will cease his efforts. Advocates of revision say the principle holds true of the rich man or the active corporation as well as of the newsboy.

The principal avenue of evasion of taxes is presented by tax-exempt securities of states and municipalities. The annual report of the secretary of the treasury shows that $11,000,000,000 of such securities now are outstanding in the United States. This means that the income on this vast sum is free of any Federal taxation. Conservatively estimating that a rate of 10 per cent would apply on an average to the income from these securities were they not exempt from taxation, it is seen that a revenue of $2,100,000,000 would accrue to the treasury.

This exemption is permitted by the constitution which provides that the federal government may not interfere with the rights of states and cities to declare their securities exempt from taxation. Secretary Mellon has recommended to congress that the constitution be amended so that the federal government may interfere to the extent of levying the income tax on the incomes from such bonds.

About $1,000,000,000 of fresh securities of this class are issued by states and cities every year, so the volume of tax free income is increasing rapidly. Such a tendency makes the people who do not own such securities pay a higher rate as in effect they let the holders of the tax exempt securities avoid paying.

The third taxation problem is that presented by the undivided surplus of corporations. The supreme court of the United States and the treasury department have held that distribution of these surpluses which have been accumulated over a number of years, are not directly subject to the income tax in given circumstances. This has provoked much criticism. Representative James A. Frear of Wisconsin is championing new legislation which clearly will define such distributions as taxable. He asserts corporations should not be permitted to divide surplus earnings in this way without meeting the tax. The attitude of Secretary Mellon and others is that corporations should be encouraged to accumulate surpluses as large accumulations of capital are invaluable in giving solidity to business enterprises and making expansion and development possible. Varying political views are involved in these tax controversies and the various phases have champions on each side.

Allegorical artists will draw the Grim Reaper running an automobile hereafter instead of using a sickle.

The beautiful snow poet may come out of the coal hole and be safe.

According to the testimony of an officer before a congressional committee the Standard Oil company makes only a cent a gallon. Many an automobile makes more cents than that per gal.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE CHRISTMAS LETTER
Last night I found upon my bed,
A letter in a childish hand,
And opening it I soon was reading:
"Dear Dad, I want a snare drum, and
A pair of skates, another sled,
A wrist watch with a leather band.
"I'd like to have an airplane too,
Get one that has a little speed;
A flashlight and a game that's new,
A set of books that I can read,
And anything to wear which you
And Mother think I really need."
I chuckled as I read each line
Put down with such a childish scrawl,
Yet better far than writing lines
Where never blot was known to fall,
Better than poetry divine—
For joy was lavished through it all.

Oh sad, thought I, that man must be—
When once the note I'd read—
Though great his wealth of luxury,
Who has no little child's eye see.
To leave where he should surely see.
A Christmas letter on his bed.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

THE CLOSING YEAR.
The year is drawing to a close,
And pessimists will squawk
About its multitude of woes.
Lugubrious their talk.

They hark back to the public ills
And what we have gone through
And give hand-working folk the chills,
As thankless fools cry do.

The year is drawing to a close,
But let us not shut the sun,
You'll find that all our greatest woes
Were those that didn't come.

The Ivory Brothers, acrobatic head balancers in Janesville, were hired to participate in an entertainment of a Long Island estate for the pleasure of week-end guests.

After they had completed their act, they were invited by the host, a well-known millionaire, to look the place over.

They wandered about among the magnificent rooms and marveled greatly.

"What do you think of this soft old bloke?" asked one. "How did he get all this? I'll bet he can't even stand on his hands."

IF I OWNED A THEATRE—

I would have all the critics knock every show.
I would have all the reformers denounce it.
I would hire a courteous boxoffice man and not a bored smart clerk.
I would have somebody answer patrons politely over the telephone.
I would not seat any person during the action of the play.
I would have the smoking room scrubbed once every month.
I would make the actors talk plain English or quit the job.
I would not try to imitate some other success.
I would have a standard of prices and stick to it.
I would not sell seats behind posts or around corners.
I would have any press agent send coupon copies that editors could read.
I would consider comfortable seats the best investment I could make.
I would air the house out once a week whether it needed it or not.
I would call a park show after the first performance.
I would not try to give the public what it didn't want.
I would make a heck of a theatre proprietor, wouldn't I?

I would go broke in six months.

Who's Who Today

DUKE OF ABERCORN.
James Albert Edward Hamilton, third Duke of Abercorn, has been appointed governor-general of Ulster. The Duke is a member of the Ulster Parliament and was treasurer of His Majesty's Household from 1906-05. He is a Conservative.

He was born in 1869, the son of the second Duke and Lady Mary Anna Curzon. In 1914 he married Lady Rosalind Bligh, daughter of the Earl of Lucan. The couple have five children, two sons and three daughters.

Abercorn was educated at Eton. He entered the first life guards of the British Army in 1892 and resigned in 1903. He is now major of the North Irish Horse Guards. He is one of the larger land owners holding about 20,000 acres.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
Dec. 18, 1882.—A special committee of the county board is to report on the amount paid into the county by liquor licenses, as the supreme court has ruled that all this money must go to the support of the poor. The body of H. G. Roberts, a well-known character here was found in his rooms in the Village Hotel this morning. It was decided he had died of epilepsy.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1892.—V. P. Richardson, in a letter to the Gazette contends that a police force would cost more than Janesville could expend on it. There is a great deal of discussion now on the subject. Christmas shoppers are here from all surrounding towns—Monday is pay-day for the Loan and Building association—Stores are now opening evenings for the Christmas trade.

TEN YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1912.—Work on the joint railroad bridge above the present Fourth avenue bridge, was started when the old bridge was moved a little to allow work to start. A meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. this morning to arrange for a Chautauqua program for the city next summer. Work at local tobacco warehouses started recently.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

LOW DENSITY AND THAT FAT FEELING

All mankind may be roughly divided into the fat and the lean. The lean we may categorize as healthy. The fat we may be subdivided into several groups:

1. Fat folks.
2. Women who tire of searching for the shoe horn to get into their clothes with.
3. Men of 50 or upwards who mistake incipient obesity for health plus or dignity or something.
4. Persons endowed with a faulty ductless gland equipment.
5. Overmoulted invalids.
6. Casually honest. Well tired but never honestly tired.

The first and sixth subdivisions are not identical, though similar. Fat folks, proper, if fat can be deemed at all proper, are so by reason of their extraordinary skill and endurance in gastronomic feats. Gas-hounds are fat and shining marks for high blood pressure because they seldom walk to work. A gas hound would beat the "machines" he goes out to the woods for an armful of kindlings.

Subdivision Two includes a majority of the good-looking.

No woman under 40 is so fat more than 10 per cent over the average stripped weight for women of her age and height should ever risk her good looks, to say nothing of her good sense, by attempting to lose a hope. No 40 more or less lovely women who have asked me to help them make this wicked attempt and met with a cold refusal will read this and understand.

Subdivision Three, the dignified men, though flabby enough, heaven knows, are nevertheless hard as nails to touch health. At 15 or 16 we know rather more than our parents, and these funny dignified chaps, just commencing corporations, think the preaching that people eat too much is nonsense. They look at themselves and know it is nonsense, and then one week they have a "nervous breakdown" or epilepsy or nephritis—some of the "strain of business life!" They're as funny as their wives and sons, they think daily exercise is all right enough for some people, but not at all essential for hard-headed business men.

Persons in subdivision Four are in dividual problems to be solved by their respective medical advisers. Nowhere in any of these classes, because they are really not fat, are those who have that fat feeling. A flabby, inefficient, almost faulty feeling. It is truly a fatuous feeling. Some persons have insufficient muscle tissue and a superfluity of slack tissue. Their specific gravity or density is low. Reasonable daily exercise is all they need.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Diphtheria Carrier.
My boy, aged 11, has had diphtheria and they have cut the nose placard and lost weeks. They say the cultures are still bad. The boy has been perfectly well for three weeks and he makes me nervous. Who doctor himself says my boy is well, but he refuses to certify that to the health department. They put up a certificate saying the boy is a carrier. They say the health department always keeps a record of all cases, anyway. What do you say?

Answer.—Perhaps your boy caught diphtheria from some pharyngeal septicemic who was a carrier, but had escaped the attention of the health authorities. If the throat of your child is infected with diphtheria, he would possibly give diphtheria to many children. If you permit him to go to school now, you would not want that to happen. The health department would rather not have the sten on your door, but takes the position that it would be unsafe not to warn the public. The health department from a known carrier of diphtheria germs. In some cases removal or 24-hour treatment of the tonsils is necessary to eradicate the carrier state.

When.
Please tell me how to get rid of warts. (H. H. C.)

Answer.—Warts often come and go without known cause. That accounts for the innumerable "cure cures" for warts. Sometimes painting wart and skin around it for an inch, once weekly with tincture of iodine is effective. Sometimes touching the wart daily with castor oil is effective. The familiar corn root, a solution of 50 per cent of salicylic acid in half an ounce of flexible collodion—often proves as effective for warts as it does for corns. Painted on once a day for about the face are best removed by the surgeon. Caustics and acids should not be applied to warts, for they are dangerous and commonly fail.

Q. Does Canada encourage immigration? C. H. S.

A. The Canadian minister of the interior says that Canada is open to be a keen competitor with all other countries of the world for immigrants.

Q. What are provisional stamps? F. H. R.

A. Provisional issues of stamps have been made from time to time in different countries. This has sometimes been done for the purpose of providing a new denomination for immediate use before the regular stamps can be printed. Provisional postage stamps are usually made by overprinting metal or telegraph stamps for postal use or by surcharging existing stamps with a new value.

Q. Where does Louisiana find a market for her sugar? H. M. S.

A. The forestry service says the Spanish moss of Louisiana is sold in every state of the union, in every country in Europe, in Egypt, South Africa, Asiatic Turkey, Japan, Siberia, the Philippines, Australia, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies. It is an interesting commodity not only because it supplies a world-wide demand, but for the further reason that its total value placed in an important position. The moss is used in upholstery—for stuffing mattresses, cushions and saddles—and has been so employed for generations. Its use, however, has greatly increased in recent years. Louisiana is said to furnish more than half of the world's supply.

Q. Was there any historical basis for the poem "The Boy Who Stood on the Burning Deck"? H. P. T.

A. Mrs. Hemans' well known poem is based on the tragic story of Louis Casabianca, a French naval officer's son, who was mortally wounded at the battle of the Nile, August 1, 1798. The ship caught fire, Casabianca's 10-year-old son would not leave him, and both were killed by the exploding of the ship.

The basket lunch is harder to plan and prepare than the lunch at home. There are many foods that cannot be included in it, either because they are not so easily carried or because they cannot be conveniently packed or carried.

Careful planning is necessary to prevent errors, and extra care is needed in the preparation of foods that must be packed in a cool place and kept for several hours before being eaten.

The Test of Time

Time is the real test of the stability of any institution. In prosperous times a business organization may flourish and appear quite successful, but it is only those concerns which have built on a sound business foundation that are able to come through periods of depression unharmed. This is particularly true of Banks.

This Bank was organized in 1855 as "The Central Bank of Wisconsin" and in 1863 incorporated under the National Bank Act as the "First National Bank," receiving the second national bank charter granted in the State of Wisconsin.

From the beginning it has been the ambition of the Officers and Directors of this bank to build a good, sound, financial institution worthy of the Confidence of the people of this Community. That they have succeeded, is evidenced by the consistent growth of the bank and the splendid manner in which it has weathered the different periods of financial stress from 1857 down through the late depression.

In July, 1919, the Capital Stock of the bank was increased to $200,000.00 and at the present time Capital, Surplus and Profits are well over $500,000.00. Our total Resources are over $3,000,000.00.

This Bank is a member of the Federal Reserve System and is examined twice each year by Federal Bank Examiners in addition to an annual examination by auditors employed by our directors. We are also obliged to make five reports of condition to the government each year.

Our Board of Directors is composed of men of wide experience who give the same careful attention to the management of the Bank that they give to their own affairs. They meet every week and pass on all loans and investments and advise with the officers.

We are fully equipped to give the best service in all of our departments and we solicit the accounts of Corporations, Societies, Firms and Individuals on that basis and on our record as a bank.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.
Dorinda Nicholson is shy to a painful degree. She lives with her high spirited cousin, Gladys, and her Aunt Maude and Uncle Peter Nicholson. As a sort of a poor-relation servant, she is employed by Peter.
Dorinda is accepted and neglected by the little circle in Norris City over which Gladys rules. Gladys has all the attention. Dorinda has no friends until Morton Newberry enters his quiet life. Dorinda is attracted to him. A sweet little friendship begins to ripen into real mutual love, when Gladys suddenly becomes cross every time they see each other.

A SURPRISE
Chapter 21
"How much?" Gladys insisted when Morton hesitated.
"Oh, a lot," he evaded.
"Not very much," she pouted and turned away her head.
"I believe you are in love with Dorinda," he said.
"No, I'm not," and in his effort to make her comfortable and to bring conversation back to an impersonal level he put a convincing warmth into his denial.
Gladys turned radiant. She was pretty, of course, and just now her face was lit up with coquetry. She was blindly following out an instinct that was strong within her, whose power she didn't entirely realize, and she saw triumph ahead of her. Morton Newberry was in his quiet life, and she was never unwilling to be somewhat sentimental. In Norris City that was considered quite all right—to hold hands was expected—a kiss was not out of the question.

But Morton! Or all the men she knew, he alone had failed to give to her. His indifference was fire to Dorinda. She was willing to do anything, almost, to make him fall in love with her.
"As the weeks went on, and she gained only a passive friendship, she submitted to her attentions without really seeming to care whether she liked him or not. She grew so eager, and so angry that she teased herself into falling in love.
She did not mean to make him propose to her when they started out, she didn't entirely mean to this minute. She wanted him to say he was in love with her, which meant nothing serious in her little crowd. Jesse said he was in love every time they were together.
"Wrong!"
Which made her furiously vexed. And which made her want him to fall in love seriously.
"Yes!" She was still down in the mouth, outwardly. She turned to him. "Don't you see—if you were in love with her, when I was in—"

Why wouldn't he say it? Curiously, she wanted to slip him. But she leaned nearer to him instead, reminding him of her what to do. "Do you think I'm wicked? I can't help it!"
There was attraction in her eyes, in her red lips, in her nearness. It would have affected a far more indifferent person than Morton. Morton was yielding to her physically, as he yielded to her mentally weeks before. His fingers tightened, which was all the encouragement she needed.
"Of course I don't! What do you mean?" he said. His head not quite clear, confused, pleased, and for the first time, wishing to be nearer to her.

"You know what I mean! Don't make me say it," she begged, her mouth near his. "Kiss me—please, Morton!"
Morton put his arms around her.

And with her eager caress forgot entirely the little wistful-eyed face he had been thinking of often for weeks.
"You do love me, don't you?" she was saying. "Please tell me."
"I do love you," he repeated, suddenly sure he meant it, and kissing her again and again.
Instantly she grew calm and cool. She had had her way. She wanted him to be in love and he was. He had said so. Gladys pulled away and sat looking at his homely face with its millions of freckles and the worst she had laughed at, the large mouth, the eyes usually a little sleepy, with an air of complete satisfaction and possession.
"Well, Morton, won't we?" she cried. "Morton, let's go back and tell the folks. They'll be so surprised!"

And before he could collect his ideas, or think out by the slow mental processes characteristic of him, just what he had done and why, or how he might get out of it, she had held out her arms again.
Dorinda, looking from her bedroom window, saw them coming down the hill, hand in hand.

Dinner Stories

The three children came and stood in a row in front of their mother. "Mamma," cried the eldest, "I want you to tell me how you like for my birthday."

"My dears, mamma wants nothing for her birthday but three good children. She would like that."

"Say," remarked the little American girl to her English cousin, which would you rather—British or American? "Why, English," was the prompt response. "Aw, g'wan," she said, with a British air, "that's just like you Brits."

She was applying for a position as stenographer, and he questioned her thus: "Chow gum?"

"No, sir," she replied. "I don't eat cat and dog and such words." "Yes, sir," he replied. "Get here on time and work while you're here."

Then she began: "Smoke bad tobacco while you're without." "Why certainly not," he replied. "Know enough English grammar and spelling to appreciate a good joke when it's written for you?"

"Why—or I think so," she replied. "Want me to go to work, or is your time so?"

But he interrupted her eagerly: "See, there's a locker there for your traps. Hang them up and let's get busy at these letters."—Puzzler.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Emergency Biscuit—Sift two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder and pinch of salt together. Cut in three tablespoons shortening and add scant cup milk. Drop by spoonfuls on greased pan and bake 12 minutes in a hot oven.
Pork Chops and Battered Potatoes—Prepare potatoes as usual in shallow pan, leaving space of one inch at top. Salt and pepper four or five pork chops and lay close to potatoes. Cover and bake in moderate oven one and one-half hours.
Brown Betty and Sauce—Mix two cups sliced apples one cup fresh brown sugar, one-quarter cup brown sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon. Add three tablespoons melted butter and pour in buttered baking dish. Pour over one-half cup water and spread buttered crumbs on top. Bake 45 minutes in moderate oven and serve with sauce.
Poamy Sauce—Beat an egg thoroughly and add one-half cup sugar. Mix well, then add one-half cup hot water and one tablespoon lemon juice. Beat again and serve.

Six Months' Cake—Work one-half cup shortening (use lard and butter in equal proportions) until creamy, then add gradually while beating constantly one cup sugar, two eggs well beaten, and one-half cup molasses. Sift and sift two and one-half cups bread flour, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, one-fourth teaspoon mace. Add alternately with one-half cup milk to first mixture and beat vigorously; then add one cup raisins. Sift into two bread pans and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

SUGGESTIONS
Emptying the Sweeper—If one will sprinkle a large piece of paper with water (such as clothes are sprinkled) it will keep the dust of the carpet sweeper from flying when emptied on it. The wet paper is equally good, of course, for use when the vacuum cleaner is emptied.
Cork for Cleaners—When a strong cork with a substantial base is dipped in a cleaning preparation and then rubbed briskly over the blade of a steel knife it will be found to clean the blade much more effectively than the more common method of using a small cloth. The saving to the hands is quite worth considering.
Slicing Bacon—Always place the rind side of bacon on the table and cut down to the rind, but not through it when slicing. When a sufficient number of slices have been cut, slip the knife over them and slice away close to the rind.

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

LEARNING YOUR JOB
At first glance you may think this has nothing to do with beauty. But it has, a lot. Being as beautiful as possible is a duty, a task, or if you will, a job. Every woman should learn how, just as much as she should learn how to run her house efficiently if she is a housekeeper, or to take swift accurate dictation if she is a stenographer.

It's one of the most important duties, and it's one that can combine with other work. It needn't take her long—performing this duty of keeping herself good looking—it need only be studied well and done well. For instance—

No one is beautiful without a good complexion. Now it takes no longer to eat proper foods than it does to keep one's face clean. It's all a question of knowing which foods are good for the system and giving the face, neck and elbows a rub with cleansing cream. Massage the scalp for a moment or two nightly. Learn how to do your nails neatly. These are only a few hints.

Salvation Army Meeting Tonight

Major T. E. Welsh will preside at the Salvation Army mass meeting in the Presbyterian church at 8 p. m. Monday. The lecture, "Modern Miracles," by Captain Jack Addie, chief evangelist, will be preceded by the following program: Opening song; prayer; Ensign A. Thomas, Deist; introduction of chairman, Lieut. Roy Hanson; remarks by chairman, Major T. E. Welsh; vocal selection, Mrs. F. T. Richards; solo, Lieut. E. James; selection, male quartet; solo, Ensign J. Westbrook.

The donors received thus far in the Christmas kettles have not been as liberal as was hoped for. Inasmuch as no canvass of the residence district was made during the annual drive, which fell short of the quota by several hundred dollars, it was expected that women shoppers would embrace the opportunity to drop their contributions in the Christmas kettles or in the offering boxes that have been placed in many of the stores and banks about the city.

Funds are desired not only for the supplying of Christmas baskets but for the purchase of food supplies to meet emergency needs that are constantly arising.

DELAN RESIDENT KILLED BY ST. PAUL PASSENGER TRAIN

did but 10 weeks ago. Miss Marquardt's marriage to Mr. Miller had not been made public, though it was rumored.

Mrs. Miller told the Gazette that Mr. Miller was on his way downtown to take a girl friend and her to Whitewater to spend the week-end at the home of her mother's, Mrs. Caroline Marquardt.

Planned announcement.

Asked regarding the secrecy surrounding the marriage, she said they had planned to announce it after Christmas, and that her mother knew of it.

She has been employed at the Bradley works since last March. Miller's aged mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer who lived with him were taken to the hospital after the accident. Mrs. Miller was hysterical.

District Attorney Easton Johnson, Whitewater, said he did not believe there would be an inquest.

Mr. Miller was born in Oswego, N. Y., July 25, 1872, and came to Janesville in the summer of 1905. He was married three years ago. His wife died about 10 weeks ago, leaving three children, Mrs. Mabel Stefano, Ullin, N. Y., and Theodore and Marian, at home Wednesday.

Funeral services will be held at the home on Third street at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday and at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church, the Rev. C. Wesley Song officiating. The Odd Fellows of which he was a member, will take part in the services. Burial will be in Spring Grove.

New Insurance Policies.

Miller has carried a $10,000 insurance policy with a double indemnity clause for several years. On Nov. 17 and Nov. 23, he took out two policies for $2,000 each with a double indemnity clause, with his estate as beneficiary. It was disclosed that he received $40,000.

It was learned Mr. Miller's parents also knew of his second marriage, as did his children. His wife had not come to live at his home because she wished to continue working until Christmas. They were married, the certificate shows, by Judge H. Sterling Porter of the city court of Kewanee, Ill., at Chicago.

A splendid Christmas present—an APOLLO CLUB SEASON TICKET.

Jefferson—The tax rate for the city this year is $20.50 per thousand or $2.05 per hundred. Last year's rate was $26 per thousand. The amount to be raised to meet the county and state budget this year is $442,000, or $4.42 per hundred. The tax for this purpose will therefore be $2.55, or 25.5 cents less than last year.

As a result of the day contributions of Saturday, the American Red Cross will distribute Christmas baskets to the city's poor.

RADIO BOOTS AND GALOSHES.

We have just received a big shipment of radio boots and galoshes in all sizes.

Today's Blunder Corrected

By ARTHUR C. LUEBER, Publisher, City of Chicago.

The word "City" should not be used as a part of the address on a letter or package. It does not take much longer to write out the name of the city, with the State, and it may save annoying delay. Letters which are sealed with a sponge and those upon which the stamps are dampened with a sponge frequently stick together, and if a letter addressed "City" sticks to a letter addressed to another city and should be misshapen to that other city, it is a matter of chance where or not it will be delivered; and if it is delivered there is sure to be a delay. Traveling men sometimes fall into the habit of using the word "City" as a part of the address, for the sake of the fact that when the letter is mailed it will not be in the city in which they reside, and therefore delay, and perhaps non-delivery, is the result. The designation North, South, East, or West before the name of the state should always be used, to avoid delay, when it is required as a part of the address.

Virginia, Minn.—Captain William White, associated in the development of the mining industry on the Mesaba range, died.
